

THE FOUNDATION TO PREVENT
ANTIBIOTIC RESISTANCE

New Swedish foundation announces research funding within the field of antibiotic resistance

Apply now for financial support for research

For the first time, there is now an opportunity to apply for research funds made available by the Foundation to prevent antibiotic resistance. The Foundation gives direct financial support for research, educational initiatives and information activities aimed at combating antibiotic resistance. The purpose of the projects should be to reduce the use of antibiotics through preventive measures that strengthen the immune system and thereby reduce the number of infections. The foundation plans to allocate SEK four million.

Deadline for application

Applications must be received by the Foundation no later than 12 October 2018.

E-mail:

Send complete application to Aase Sten, Secretary General of the Foundation:
aase.sten@preventantibioticresistance.com

Notification of granted applications

The Foundation's decision on approved grants will be announced in the end of November, 2018.

Persons receiving funding commit to communicate their project on a publicly accessible-scientific level through a media directed at the public, for example, press release, lectures or in other ways reaching out with new knowledge to the public.

Limitations

Support is not provided for the development of new antibiotics, travel to conferences, information or training of health professionals to reduce prescription of antibiotics.

To apply for funding

Download and fill in our application form.

Decisions of funding are taken by the Scientific Board.

For more information:

Aase Sten

Secretary General at the Foundation for the Prevention of Antibiotic Resistance

E-mail: aase.sten@preventantibioticresistance.com

Mobile: +46 72-723 27 00

Website:

<http://preventantibioticresistance.com>